

Simon Community in parade

Members of Dundalk Simon Community will be participating in this year's St Patrick's Day Parade on Tuesday.

The emphasis for this year's parade is on community and culture and offers a great opportunity for the Simon Community to thank the people of Dundalk for their brilliant support over the past 35 years.

The parade is also an opportunity to let the Dundalk people know that in these hard times of economic downturn help is still at hand locally.

Not only does Dundalk Simon Community have emergency accommodation, they also strive in their endeavour to supply long-term accommodation while also providing after care support and outreach prevention support so that nobody need feel alone.

Niall Mulligan, CEO said: ' We are both excited and proud to take part in this years St Patrick's Day parade. The people of Dundalk have supported us in our work for the last 35 years ó we want everybody to know how much that is appreciated.

'What better way to do so than by parading our appreciation through the streets of the town. It will be a great day!'
